

Governor's Statement on the Future of the Boston Museum

“I understand that next year the Boston History & Innovation Collaborative will join forces with the Boston Museum to create a home base where visitors and families come to learn about (our) history. It will be located near Quincy Market and adjacent to the Greenway. The Boston Museum partnership will reap big educational, economic development and community-building dividends. It will showcase Massachusetts as home of the sons and daughters not only of the American Revolution but of the Industrial Revolution, the medical and biotech revolutions, the clean energy revolution and civil and human rights revolutions as well.”

- Massachusetts Governor Deval Patrick
Boston History & Innovation Awards dinner
November 18, 2008

Video of the Governor's remarks can be seen at www.bostonmuseum.org/innovationmerger.html